

I've been writing digital books to sell them on Kindle. In Japan, not many people know about the existence of Kindle. Some people have heard about it but they think they need to buy a "special" device to read books. In fact, anybody who has a smart phone or a computer can download Kindle for free. That made me realize that changing other people's attitudes toward Kindle should be the first thing I need to do in order for more people to read my books. I hope I can eventually have my books known to as many people as possible. (ここまで 100 語)
